Dear Gene:

After reading your letter of 30 April concerning our work on ruble costs of Soviet defense programs, Mr. Bush asked me to respond and to tell you that he is pleased to learn about the cooperation and discussions between CIA and DIA on this matter.

I have told Mr. Bush about our phone conversation of last week on this subject and about the briefings we are arranging for the Secretary of Defense and others in the Department. I have assured him that our forthcoming report will have a strong statement about the interim nature of the results presented and the need for further study.

As I told you on the phone, we will give a preliminary copy of the report to your representatives on the CIA/DIA Military Costing Review Board.

Sincerely,

Edward W. Proctor
Deputy Director for Intelligence

Tuesday, May 18

Afternoon Distribution of both secret and unclassified versions to:

House Armed Services
House Appropriations
House International Relations
Senate Armed Services
Senate Appropriations
Senate Foreign Relations
Joint Economic Committee (Senator Proxmire)
Congressional Budget Office

We should provide Representative Aspin with the unclassified version only and direct him to the House Armed Services Committee if he wishes to see the classified version.

3. The House Armed Services Committee may wish to release the unclassified version to the press. This was done with the dollar paper and caused no problem. There should be none with this one.

4. I will see that Angus Thuermer has copies of the unclassified version to use in response to press queries Tuesday afternoon. We also can arrange to provide a background briefing to interested reporters upon their request. I would prefer that such a briefing not be billed as a press conference and that we set a time when the briefer will be available and invite those who express an interest to attend if they wish.

5. We are putting the unclassified version into the Document Expediting Project of the Library of Congress, which will service non-governmental entities interested in obtaining copies.

EDWARD W. PROCTOR

In my testimony before your Subcommittee last year, I noted that CIA was still working on the estimate of trends in the ruble costs of Soviet defense programs. This is to inform you that our work is progressing well and that we expect to publish the results some time in the first two weeks of May. Because of your interest in this topic, you will receive a copy of the report as soon thereafter as possible.

Sincerely,

Attached for your information are copies of letters I have sent to two Senators about the timing of our long-awaited report on Soviet defense expenditures in rubles. Other people interested in the subject in both houses will also be informed.

Mr. Bush asked me to do this. By informing these people well in advance, he hopes to avoid the charge that the timing of the publication is in some way associated with any currently unforeseen budgetary or political events which may occur at the time of publication.
